'Every house should make a butterfly garden'

District Correspondent
KARDHA, Oct 2

BUTTERFLIES are one of the fascinating elements of nature and are one of the most appealing creatures on this earth. Everyone of them admires them and should try to create a habitat for them in their vicinity. Everyone of us can nurture them in the premises of their house and should try to create a butterfly habitat on the roof or in the balcony of their house. One should try to create their own butterfly garden by planting plants and shrubs that are important for the butterflies, said biodiversity researcher Dr Vijay Barve.

Dr Barve from Pune was speaking at a joint webinar organised to celebrate the Big Butterfly Month jointly by Bahar Nature Foundation and Vidyabharti College, Selu.

Every year, the Butterfly Month is celebrated from Sept 4 in order to study and maintain record of butterflies in a scientific way. A lecture of Dr Vijay Barve on

The joint webinar on Big Butterfly Month in progress.

'Pulpakharachi Anukh Duniya' was organised to celebrate the month by Bahar Nature Foundation and Vidyabharti College recently.

During his lecture, he explained the difference between a butterfly and a moth, their flying methods, anatomy, scales, color scheme, sense organs and various other highlights.

He also informed that like birds some butterflies are also migratory, some butterflies don't thrive on nectar. Even some butterflies imitate other species to learn techniques to save themselves from enemies. All over India the month of September is celebrated as Big Butterfly Month and studies are recorded in the whole country.

Maharashtra is at the forefront of the research and studies on butterflies but maximum of the records are from the Western Ghats and Vidarbha is lagging far behind, he informed.

Dr Barve also appealed the scholars to increase the recordings of butterflies and work towards conservation of these species if we have to increase agricultural production.

Butterflies are a very important component involved in pollinating the flowers and therefore everyone should contribute towards the cause, was the opinion of many other participants in the webinar.

The online event was chaired by Bahar President Dr Subaji Ghawade. The introduction of the speakers was done at the beginning of the webinar by Head of Biology Department of Vidyabharti College Dr Ashish Upde. The vote of thanks was proposed by Bahar Vice-President and honorary wildlife conservator Sanjay Ingle Tigaskar.

Principal of the Vidyabharti College Dr Ghanshyam Patang Dandge, Rahul Wankar, Dr Aarti Prusalekhi, Rajeshwari Bhoir, Snehal Kubde, Pawan Dorne, Dr Jayant Wagh, Chitra Ingole, Sonanda Wankhade, Arizashi Bhole and others worked hard to make the event successful.

Nature lovers and young scholars from various districts of Maharashtra attended the webinar in large numbers.
